Re: Flood Event Preparation

Dear Floodplain Stakeholder:

As you know, your facility is both in the floodplain and also a critical facility with regard to floodplain events. The business model for your company uses or stores substances which are volatile, flammable, explosive, toxic or water-reactive. The City is confident that you are fully aware of the regulations pertaining to the proper storage of such materials. Please ensure that you take adequate precautions in the event of an impending storm. Improper securing and storage of these substances during a flood could lead to the widespread dispersion of chemical or materials harmful to the residents of Dunedin and the environment. If the City can be of further assistance, please call me at (727) 298-3198.

Sincerely,

Gregory A. Rice
