Project Business

Chair Brincklow stated this meeting's purpose is to review the revised Dunedin Rocks design proposal by Meps Schulte.

Review Artist Work Samples and Concept Images

Art Consultant Elizabeth Brincklow shared images of Schulte's revised design.

Discussion

Bob Ironsmith and Elizabeth Brincklow discussed the appropriateness of words in the overall design; it was concluded that, as the words used did not constitute advertising, they could remain. The suggestion was made to ask the artist to substitute the beer stein image for a bicycle image, and the committee was in agreement.

It was noted that the frame of the finished bench would be black, in keeping with other Dunedin benches, as opposed to the green shown in artist's rendering.

Both Mary Childs and D'Yaell Kelley approved of the revised design, with Kelley noting that the color combinations as shown would work in the proposal as submitted.

Jackie Nigro expressed concern regarding the durability of the design; Brincklow explained the measures that would be taken on both benches to protect the designs.

Motion to accept Meps Schultz's re-design with the substitution of a bicycle image for the beer stein image and to move both benches (Meps Schultz's and Mason Gehring's to review by the Arts & Culture Advisory Committee.

Mary Childs made the motion; D Yael Kelley seconded the motion.
Motion was unanimously carried.
